

Hiya, so what I love about the beach, I love bringing my dog onto the beach when I'm allowed, and going for lovely walks, and I like having a coffee, and just looking at the sea, and just relaxing, I find it a relaxing place to be, sometimes.

It's different from other places in the city, you can just be loud, and have fun with your friends, and swim.

I love Brighton Beach, it's just, I love the stones, I think that's quite different. I love walking along the promenade, and seeing so many different types of people just going about their days.

I like the fact that the beach is always there, and any time of the day or night, however you're feeling, it doesn't really care, you can just come down here, and the sea, you know, just stretches out to the horizon, and you can just be alone with your feelings.

Love coming here, love swimming. Brighton Beach is my favourite place in Brighton.

I love the beach, I love being by the sea, I think it doesn't really matter about the weather, you know, even if it's raining, the sea changes all the time, and the beach changes, and it's just real pleasure to be by the sea.

I live in Hove, I absolutely love the beach, the way it stretches out, and gives me space to swim throughout the whole year. I moved back down here, I'm 70 now, and I need this beach to have clean water, and I need this beach to be safe.
